

NWA Conflict of Interest and/or Bias Disclosure Form

Who should fill out this form?

Every presenter, whether giving live talks, recorded presentations, displaying posters, or sharing educational materials, must disclose any relevant financial relationships to the National WIC Association and the audience.

This means ALL presenters must:

- Complete and sign the form and submit it to the National WIC Association.
- Clearly state at the beginning of their presentation, poster, or materials whether there are any conflicts of interest or biases, and describe them if they exist. If uncertain, disclose it anyway.

How will disclosing a conflict of interest/bias affect my presentation?

Having a conflict of interest or commercial bias won't prevent a presenter from sharing their content, as long as it complies with standards. Disclosures simply ensure transparency about any potential influences on the content.

Why is completing this form required for all presenters?

Filling out this form accurately ensures that attendees or viewers are fully informed about any potential influence or bias in the content being presented. It's also necessary for obtaining continuing education credits.

What information should be included in a disclosure?

Disclosures must include:

- Presenter's name
- Name of the company or companies involved
- Nature of the relationship with each company

When is a conflict of interest/bias disclosure required?

Presenters must disclose if their presentation involves:

- Commercial bias
- Marketing activities
- External commercial support
- Personal or financial conflicts of interest that may affect professional judgment
