

50 Communities Awarded for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion

March 23, 2015

Washington, DC - As part of its work to support health promotion efforts at the community level, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's Division of Community Health (CDC/DCH) has awarded cooperative agreements to American Heart Association, American Planning Association, and the National WIC Association for sub-awards to chapters/affiliates in order to build and strengthen the community's ability to use population-based strategies that create healthier communities. The following 50 chapters/affiliates will be working to reduce tobacco use and exposure, improve nutrition, increase physical activity, and improve access to chronic disease prevention, risk reduction, and management opportunities.
